Food & Dining - Restaurant Review

Cantina Laredo

11129 Westheimer

Although Cantina Laredo is part of a chain of restaurants, it's definitely not your average place. The décor, like the food, is rich and warm and ample seating abounds.

The bar is vast and comfortable looking and can accommodate large parties should you arrive on a busy night.

I tried the Shrimp Poblano Chimichanga and it was heavenly. Stuffed with shrimp, poblano pepper, and cheese and smothered in a poblano sauce, it leaves a pleasantly full feeling. Along with it, I had a fluffy rice and a side of delicious vegetables. It well worth skipping the guacamole that looked incredible and was receiving oohs and ahhs from a neighboring table.

The rest of the appetizer and dinner menu included many traditional dishes. All of which are highly refined and tempting sounding.

The dessert selection included a skillet apple pie and Mexican brownie to name a few.

If you haven't visited Cantina Laredo, you are truly missing out.
